

JORDANMUIR

I am a creative, enthusiastic and motivated designer on the verge of completing my degree at Duncan of Jordanstone College of art and Design. My ambition and commitment to achieve a career within an innovative design company can be demonstrated by the dedication I have demonstrated within my; academic studies, work experience and participation in competitions and awards. My studies have challenged me to create and develop inventive design projects using essential skills in the industry. On the completion of my BDes (Honours), I aim to develop and exercise the expertise and knowledge that I have gained further by working within the industry.
